

Westminster art concept by Sonia Romero

Westminster depicts members of the Westminster community throughout history.

The figures were inspired by community submissions of family photos from different eras.

The mural includes a depiction of Sylvia Mendez, the child who was at the center of the landmark case, Westminster vs. Mendez which fought against segregated education.

Westminster strives to honor the multi-cultural nature of this city.

Pattern B

PATTERN B

The inspiration for Pattern B came from the palm frond in the background of this community photo submission. This photograph was taken in Vietnam before the couple came to live in Westminster. This pattern is bold and simple to compliment the more complex and detailed figures in the foreground.
